

CES Messaging Module

Keep in touch

Timely communication is key to effective management. That's why we've developed CES Messaging: the fast, efficient way to keep in touch with the 'shop floor'. It enables you to communicate the right message at the right time without interrupting the day-to-day running of your business.

Better communication

This instant messaging service enables businesses with multiple terminals to send messages between tills. It means you don't have to leave your office, and your employees don't have to leave their sales screens to keep up to date. Messages can be sent to either multiple or single operators.

Better security

CES Messaging is perfect for busy managers monitoring security cameras from their back office. You simply alert a member of your team to any suspicious activity — or any other issues of concern — via an instant, unobtrusive message to their terminal. Easy.

Better performance

This easy-to-use tool is great for communicating the same message to all staff in one hit. Whether it's a message of encouragement or a timely reminder to plug this week's customer promotion, you can do it in an instant. Job done.

- Communicate directly with your staff without them having to leave the sales screen of their till
- No need for staff to break their interaction with the customer by answering the telephone
- Send messages to specific individuals or all employees
- Alert staff to potential issues of concern in a subtle, informative manner
- Send out reminders to staff of promotions, or special offers when you see a slump in sales
